NATIVE AMERICAN BASKETWEAVING

Riverside Metropolitan Museum

Join us as we celebrate the close of Native American Week in Riverside! Make your own basket while learning about this important American Indian tradition. Try some fry bread and discover the deep meaning behind this delicious treat. Be sure to visit the museum to see our collection of Native American baskets! Did you know the Museum was originally called the "Cornelius Earle Rumsey Indian Collection" when it opened in 1924?

R.L. STINE'S GOOSEBUMP

Riverside Public Library

Inspired by children's books, the Main Library will highlight the work of R. L. Stine's Goosebump series with a special performance and a slime-making booth.

MAKE SOME NOISE!

Fox Riverside Theater Foundation on the mall

This month, the Fox Riverside Theater Foundation celebrates the start of the 2013-2014 Fox Broadway season which kicks off with STOMP, a unique stage show that features a combination of percussion, movement and visual comedy. Join us as we discover the art and fun of percussion in our day-to-day lives! We will also be joined by UCR's Association of Women in Science who will present a project for everyone to enjoy. Also returning is the Fox "Walk of Fame". Start the First Sunday season off right and get your family's name on a "Hollywood" star! More activities TBA, so make sure you stop by! PLEASE NOTE: this program is located on Mission Inn and Main on the Downtown pedestrian mall area.

NATIVE AMERICAN HEADDRESSES

Mission Inn Museum

Join the Mission Inn Museum as we celebrate cultures that influenced the beautiful art and architecture of the Mission Inn. This month, we will be creating colorful feathered and beaded headbands and explore the Native American cultures that influenced Frank Miller as he built and designed the hotel! Mr. Miller created two rooms in the basement of the Mission Inn dedicated to displaying Native American art and artifacts that included baskets, rugs, pottery, and more. The hotel's gift shop also sold Native crafts from tribes across America. Native American art was very influential in Mr. Miller's decoration of the Mission Inn and will inspire our project this month.

LET'S MAKE SUN PRINTS!

Riverside Art Museum

Have you ever had a tan line? Do you like to look at shadows? Cyanotype photograms are simple photographic prints that work with Sunlight and the shadows of objects placed upon the photogram's paper surface, to create a cyan blue tinted photo print! Come join Gluck fellow, Chelsea Rector, from UCR Program of the Art as you learn about sun prints and create your own to take home. Fun crafts for all and face painting with Miss Pamela.
